PRESS RELEASE

Innovative company from Lund breaks into the security business

LYYN AB signs agreement with leading security company.

What's happening over there in the mist? Who's approaching under cover of the snow storm? What's really going on over there in the dusk? Good visibility is paramount in the security business.

LYYN's patent-pending V.E.T. technology (Visibility Enhancement Technology) performs something that could almost be called magic. Using LYYN V.E.T. visibility in poor weather conditions can be radically improved. This has been noticed by one of the leading companies in the world of security and surveillance who have just signed a licensing agreement with LYYN AB. Their goal is to integrate LYYN V.E.T. into future products.

"Not only is the deal itself of great importance to us and has great potential, we see it as a breakthrough and a stamp of approval for the value of our technology in the surveillance industry", says Fredrik Beckman, Marketing Manager, LYYN AB.

LYYN AB is a technology company with its roots from Lund University and Malmö University Hospital (MAS)). Many years of research in medical technology form the basis of LYYN's technology. LYYN's primary markets are ophthalmics, security and surveillance, and off-shore.

LYYN Visibility Enhancement Technology (V.E.T. )"cleans" digital images and video, either in real-time or by processing saved material. With the help of this "cleaning" visibility is improved in mist and fog, snow, dust sand, darkness, etc.
